

Company planning 239-employee software center in Austin

By American-Statesman staff | Wednesday, June 8, 2011

The Advisory Board, a Washington, D.C.- based company that provides performance improvement services to the education and healthcare industries, is proposing to create a software center in Austin.

The company plans to create 239 jobs over 10 years, with an average salary of $90,000.

On Tuesday, the Austin City Council will hear a presentation on an incentive package that would pay the company $372,590 over 10 years, tied to meeting job-creating targets. The council would vote on the package at its June 23 meeting.

The Advisory Board is a publicly traded company with 1,000 employees.

For details on the city's proposal, go to www.austintexas.gov/redevelopment.

Courtesy of JB Goodwin